This meeting continues to explore the diversifying science and therapeutic applications of neuromodulation in pain and other applications.

We are very pleased to be hosting an exciting and enticing group of international and local invited speakers and expect this to be our best meeting yet.

We will hear from our esteemed guest speakers about landmark research including recent pivotal studies from the US that are evolving the quality of evidence in this space.

In addition to the usual high quality plenary lectures we will be holding special interest sessions for pain trainees and novice implanters, a nursing and allied health breakout session and a focus session on sacral stimulation.

We look forward to seeing you there!
